Spontaneous haematoma in the head and neck.

Submitted by schroder on Mon, 09/08/2014 - 2:38pm

Title Spontaneous haematoma in the head and neck.
Publication Type Journal Article
Year of Publication 1978
Authors Schröder, KE, Mair, IW
Journal J Laryngol Otol
Volume 92
Issue 3
Pagination 215-21
Date Published 1978 Mar
ISSN 0022-2151
Keywords Child, Cranioencebral Trauma, Eye Diseases, Female, Follow-Up Studies, Hematoma, Humans, Male, Mandibular Diseases, Middle Aged, Pharyngeal Diseases

Abstract
Three cases of spontaneous haematoma in the head and neck are presented. Whereas one case was associated with lingual haemangiomatosis, no source of bleeding could be demonstrated in either a chronic, spontaneous orbital blood-cyst or an acute retropharyngeal haematoma.

Alternate Journal J Laryngol Otol
PubMed ID 632660